WELL ONCE MORE

Senator Tillman and Mrs Tillman Spent Short Time In

THE CAPITAL CITY

The Senator Talks With Much Interest About His Fight on Crum and How He Held Up Sixty Senators by Relating Reminiscences of Reconstruction.

Columbia, March 11.-Senator and Mrs. Tillman spent a couple of hours in Columbia today. Senator Tillman was on his way home from the meeting of the trustees of Clemson College. Mrs. Tillman had been on a visit to relatives at Greenwood.

Senator Tillman looks remarkably well. He said that he had never felt better. His face is well filled, his complexion ruddy and healthy, and altogether he looks well. He is devoting himself to indoor exercise and says it is fine.

Senator Tillman says that the Clemson board transacted considerable business. The board has asked that Major Marcus B. Stokes, originally of Hampton county, be detailed to Clemson College as commandant to take the place of Capt. Minus, resigned.

Senator Tillman expects to spend a month in Trenton, as he does not think the Democrats can do very much in the tariff situation, and he is satisfied that the Republicans will carry out their policies.

Senator Tillman said he did not know what President Taft would do with Dr. Crum. He had heard nothing whatever about any appointment for Dr. Crum and would not be surprised if he were not appointed to any place, nor would he be surprised if he were given some place in Washington.

Senator Tillman talks with much interest about his fight against the confirmation of the appointment of Dr. Crum, and said that one of the remarkable things about his fight was for hours he held up sixty senators, while he was relating his reminiscences of reconstruction and his fight with McLaurin.

The senator says he feels quite well enough to go out on another of his lecture tours, and incidentally he thinks that the "wild talk" in which he indulged while on his lecturing tour had done much to clear up the atmosphere with regard to the race question.

Mrs. Tillman savs that Senator Tillman is not to go on any lecture

Scientists Say the Earth Won't Have Collision.

Cambridge, Mass., March 11 .--Commenting on the assertion made recently by Dr. Percival Lowell that the earth was in danger of colliding with some large astral body and thus be destroyed, Prof. William H. Pickering, of the Harvard Astronomocal Observatory, says that the chance of such an event is about "one in one hundred millions, raised to the one hundred millionth power,"

"A more possible danger,' he added, "but nevertheless an improbable one, is that the solar system in its journey through space may come close enough to some such a dark body as to cause a disturbance in the orbital motion of planets and perhaps carry some of them, the earth included, into space. The danger is so remote, however, that there need

STANDARD OIL ACQUITTED OF ALL CHARGES.

The Verdict Was Returned On Instruction of United States Judge Anderson in Chicago.

Chicago, March 10 .- The Standard Oil Company of Indiana was today found not guilty of accepting rebates from shipments of oil from Whiting, Ind., to East St. Louis, Ill. The verdict was returned by a jury in the federal court on instructions of Judge A. G. Anderson, who averred that he followed the circuit court of appeals decision as to the verdict returned at the former trial of the same case and on which verdict Judge Kensaw Mountain Landis assessed a fine of $29,240,000.

Judge Anderson's decision was not unexpected as he had yesterday told the government prosecutors that the proof relied on in the first trial was incompetent, and that it must be complemented or fail. It was with something of an air of hopelessness that District Attorney Edwin W. Sims, and his assistant attempted to show the admissability of the Illinois classification to prove the existance of a legal rate of 18 cents, which was a vital point in the government's contention.

It was after Assistant District Attorney Jas. H. Wilkerson had argued for two hours and in the end admitted that the prosecution could not furnish the further proof deemed necessary by the court for a continuation of the case that Judge Anderson announced his decision.

Mr. Wilkerson said that the government could proceed no further and suggested dismissal of the case. Attorney John S. Miller, chief counsel in the case of the oil company, immediately moved that there be an instructed verdict of not guilty. The court so ordered and the jury, which had been excluded during the arguments by the attorneys, was called in and charged.

The decision of Judge Grosscup, Baker and Seaman, of the United States circuit court of appeals, reversing Judge Landis, together with the decision of the court of appeals, was assigned as authority for today's decision.

BITTER FIGHT

Is On Between Speaker Cannon And The Insurgents.

DEMOCRATS JOIN IN

The War on the Speaker and He May Be Defeated—The Allies Lack Only One Vote, Which They Hope to Get From Four New

Washington, March 10 .- Repubican leaders in the house of representatives are gravely discussing the insurgents movement, which has evolved sufficient strength to make imminent a change of the house rules despite the resistive efforts of the Cannon-Payne-Dalzell combine. Failing to change the rules on the day preceeding the adjournment last week, the insurgents gave notice of their immovable purpose thereafter to renew the fight with vigor when the extra session is rapped to order next Monday.

In the next house there will be 219 Republicans and 172 Democrats. The insurgents will have 22 holdover members in their ranks with certain addition of Judge Irving Lent Lenroot, of Wisconsin, who was elected on an Anti-Cannon pledge. United with the solid Democratic forces they will be able to muster 195 votes, according to present estimates, while the total opposition strength will be 196. It requires the vote of only one Republican for the insurgents to change the house rules to any extent that may be desired. The insurgents claim four new members: Picket and Woods, of Iowa; Plumly, of Vermont, and Kopp, of Wisconsin.

They have been working earnestly to make their converts and unless the leaders stick close to their guns the movement will undoubtedly be recruited. So intense has the purpose and the loyalty of the insurgents become that each man is constituting himself a "whip" and is doing strenuous service. Minority Leader Clark says that every one of his men shall be present in the house on March 15, to vote for a change in the rules, which are as obnoxious to the Democrats, as they are to those Republicans who are leading the movement for certain radical reform.

The changing of the rules along radical lines is not the only aim of the insurgents. They mean, if possible, to depose Speaker Cannon, and that progress in that direction is coequal and co-extensive with their campaign for a change of the unpop-

A proposition has been submitted to the Democrats by which an insurgent may be elected Speaker with the aid of the minority. The plan is to allow the Democratic leaders to select a candidate from among the insurgents, who will then support him. It is not believed that the proposition will be accepted, as some of the Democrats regard it as involving bad policies, and might result in the insurgents being repudiated by their party as going too far in their opposition to the Republican leaders of the house. Whether or not Mr. Cannon is defeated for reelection as Speaker, every indication points to the success of the movement against the existing rules in

A MYSTERIOUS CAVERON.

Two Dogs Are Lost in It and Can't Be Found.

Farmers of Weldon Spring, in St. Charles county, Mo., strove for two days to rescue two dogs that had been imprisoned for three weeks in a cave. Spurred by the piteous barks and whines of the dogs, the men dug down until they were stopped by solid rock. Dynamite was used without avail. One man risked his life by crawling 150 feet at the end of a rope into a cave, but was unable to rescue the dogs. The effort was then abandoned, because the cries of the dogs could no longer be heard, and it was concluded that they had perished.

Three weeks ago Bob Tarbel and Sam Pitman were hunting on John Burton's farm, when their dogs started a coon, which sought safety in a cave. The dogs, intent on the chase, followed it in through the narrow entrance and disappeared from sight and hearing. They did not return, and it was three weeks later, that their whines were heard near an old sink hole 500 feet away. Digging began but was soon stopped by solid rock and dynamite was then used.

Fully 100 men, women and children gathered and urged the workers to greater endeavors, but they could do nothing except to try to explore the cave. Finally Howell risked his life in an attempt to reach and rescue the dogs. He volunteered to crawl into the cave with a rope tied to him. One 150 feet long was brought and an end of it tied around his waist. He crawled into the cave and went the length of the rope. He found the passage at that depth so small that he could not have gone further, even if the rope had been He could hear the dogs and called loudly to them, but they seemed to have fallen over a declivity. and could not come to him.

Saranac Lake, N. Y., March 10 .-Capt. E. E. Thomas, an old-time woodsman, has discovered a great cave in a secluded part of the Adirondacks which may rival the famous Mammoth Cave of Kentucky. Thomas chanced to strike the entrance to the cavern on the summit of a mountain seldom visited by travelers, or sportsmen, some time ago, but kept the matter secret until he could make an investigation.

Taking a companinon with him he entered the cavern for 1,000 feet, and as the end was not reached. the extent of the cave from that point on is as yet undetermined. It is situated on a mountain known as 'W" Mountain, not far from Standish. N. Y. In describing hts discovery, the old woodsman said: "The mouth is about fifty feet wide. The first room her assistance, which is given not is fifty feet long, twenty feet wide and thirty feet high. It swarmed with bats, which lined the walls and seemed scarcely able to move. There was a decided smell of sulphur. In the next room, which was about forty by fifteen feet, we found passages branching in many directions, and were unable to explore all of

"With only the feeble rays of a lantern to guide us, we several times narrowly escaped falling into pits. You can imagine how deep some of these were, when I say that we had time to count fifteen and twenty before rocks we dropped into them were heard to strike-and we did not count rapidly. An elk's horn was found by us far inside the cave.

"After going a short distance from the mouth there was no vegetation. There is no opening at the base of the mountain and there are no streams in the cave so far as we have yet discovered."

TRAIN HAND KILLED.

Will Campbell Run Over by Engine at Greenwood.

Greenwood, March 11 .- Will Campbell, a negro train hand employed in the Seaboard local yards, had his legs cut off while at work in the yards early Wednesday morning, and died several hours later from the effects of his injuries. He was run over shortly after 2 o'clock and died at 5 o'clock Wednesday morning. It appeared that Campbell was at to go up to the tank and return. It would seem that, as the engine came back, he attempted to jump on, but missed his footing and fell underneath. Both legs were cut off.

The switching crew was in charge of Yard Conductor Meaders and Engineer Pittman. Mr. Pittman stated that the engine was going about two or three miles an hour. Campbell was an excellent train hand knew his business well, and it seems more than likely that it was a case of accident. It was said at the inquest that Campbell said before he died that he did not see how he could get hurt.

A coroner's jury was impanelled and the following verdict was rendered: "Will Campbell came to his death by accident on his own part.'

At the same time it was announced that the belief was growing that the priest's assassins were not Newark men, although it was thought that the murder has been planned here and that some of those under arrest may be able to shed light on these plans.

A crowd of 5,000 Poles gathered early tonight in front of the rectory in which lay the body of the murdered priest, expressing their grief and demanding to see the body. The police succeeded in getting it under control by promising to grant its demand. Accordingly, a double line of police was arrayed from the street through the house, and for two hours or more the Poles marched in single file past the casket in which the body lay.

FOUND GUILTY OF MURDER.

Laurens Breaks a Record Covering Fifteen Years.

Laurens, March 10 .- For the first time in about fifteen years a Laurens jury has returned a straight verdict of murder without a recommendation to mercy. This occurred this afternoon in the Court of General Sessions, when the jury returned a verdict of guilty in the case of the State vs. John Henry Anderson for the murder of his father-in-law. It will be recalled that Anderson shot and killed old man Joseph Carter at the Cedar Grove church at the funeral of one of Anderson's children. He shot him in the back, and without immediate provocation. Anderson will very likely be sentenc-

Two cases of attempted criminal assault were tried today in the General Sessions Court, one against a young white man, Albert Duncan, accused of attempting to ravish a young girl in Waterloo Township, the home of both. Duncan was found guilty with mercy recommended by the jury. The other case was against Will McCollough, colored charged with attempting to ravish a young white girl in Sullivan's Township. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty.
